Living Pictures: A Theatrical Technique for Learning Across the Curriculum

A DVD Workshop for Teachers of Grades 2-6

Led By Sean Layne, professional actor and arts educator

This DVD workshop, Living Pictures: A Theatrical Technique for Learning Across the Curriculum, explores a theatrical technique known as tableau. At its most basic level, tableau requires students to pose and freeze in order to capture and reflect on a moment in time. Applied to history, literature, or visual arts, tableau activities help students develop empathy for people and events they are studying as well as build their self-awareness and concentration. The DVD workshop demonstrates a process every teacher can use to lead students in successfully creating and assessing tableaus.

The workshop packet includes a DVD featuring professional actor and educator, Sean Layne, demonstrating the tableau technique with students, a Guide for Teachers to reinforce concepts introduced in the DVD, a music CD for a warm-up activity, and an overhead transparency for an activity. For facilitators of professional development programs, Option A also includes a Facilitator's Guide for those leading a group of teachers.
